LEWIS IS KILLED BY ENGINE AT MORENCI

Morenci, Ariz., March 10.—Con Lewis, a machinist and old timer, was killed on the slag dump of the Detroit Copper company's smelter, by being hit by the slag engine. His companion, Boyd, was also hit, but not very seriously hurt.

Frank Hitchens, claiming to be a stepson of Jack Rowell, of Deming, has landed in Morenci, having, according to his story, run away from home in search of work. As he is only 12 years of age, the officers decided it was better to hold him and notify his parents, and to return him to them.

It is said that the courthouse matter is settled at Clifton, that is Judge Lewis has refused the injunction against the supervisors locating the courthouse in the hills addition, but the sentiment, it is said, is not settled yet, and will not be soon, as the people of Clifton, and especially the taxpayers, are much disappointed over the matter. It is said, and while some reports have said that the sentiment was largely backed by Morenci people, this is only true in part, as the greatest fight of all in the location of the courthouse was among the Clifton people themselves. Morenci people knew they had lost out when the county seat was located in Clifton, and a consequence have had little to say about the matter since.

To Grow Hair On A Bald Head

By a Specialist.

Thousands of people suffer from baldness and falling hair who, having tried nearly every advertised hair tonic and hair grower without results, have resigned themselves to baldness and its attendant discomfort. Yet their case is not hopeless; the following simple home prescription has made hair grow after years of baldness, and is also unequalled for restoring gray hair to its original color, stopping hair from falling out, and destroying the dandruff germ. It will not make the hair greasy, and can be put up by any druggist. Buy 1/2 pint, 6 ounces; Lavone de Composee, 2 ounces; Menthol Crystals, one-half drachm. If you wish it perfumed, add half to one teaspoonful of Toilet Perfume, which unites perfectly with the other ingredients. This preparation is highly recommended by physicians and specialists, and is absolutely harmless, as it contains none of the poisonous wood alcohol so frequently found in hair tonics. Do not apply to the face or where hair is not desired.

SAYS COTTON MILL IS A MODERN HEROD

McKelway Pleads For Rescue of Children From Mill Slavery.

Birmingham, Ala., March 10.—Cotton manufacturers, by means of lobbies in legislative halls, have obstructed child labor legislation. In the opinion of A. J. McKelway, secretary for the southern states of the National Child Labor committee, who addressed the seventh annual conference of the organization last night.

Referring to the plea of the New England and southern cotton manufacturers at the tariff hearing in 1908 before the ways and means committee, that cotton goods should not be burdened with a prohibitive tariff because cotton manufacture was an infant industry, Mr. McKelway said:

"If an infant industry is one that employs infants, this is emphatically an infant industry. The cotton mill is the 'Herod among industries,' and its slaughter of the innocents continues in the 20th century. When next the cotton manufacturers come before the representatives of the American people, those representatives may well insist that protection to infant industries must be preceded by some measure of protection for industrious infants."

The cotton mill through the manufacturers' lobbies which crowd every legislative hall where child labor legislation is being considered is not only condemning the host of children which it employs to a life of child labor, but is holding back the states of America from the adoption of a standard uniform child labor law. And if, as they frequently claim, the cotton mills cannot exist without the child labor system, with a wage scale too low to survive on American soil, the American people will contemplate with serenity the putting out of the factory fires and will write upon the walls the obituary of the Herod. They are dead that sought the young child's life to destroy it."

Mr. McKelway reviewed the history of the child labor movement, declaring that one of the reasons which led the pilgrim fathers to leave England was the oppression of their children in the old world.

Lovejoy Tells of Progress.

Progress in the prevention of the evils of child labor in the last seven years was noted in a speech from Owen R. Lovejoy, general secretary of the national child labor committee, before the convention on Child Labor.

The speaker suggested that changes secured in child labor laws within the past seven years would perhaps more accurately than anything else measure the extent to which the public had awakened. He explained the scientific reasons upon which the committee has based its agitation for excluding all children under 14 years from manufacturing and commercial industries, for limiting the labor of those under 16 to an eight hour day, and prohibiting their work at night, for excluding all children from certain occupations known to be dangerous to health or morals, and especially referred to the investigation recently conducted by the committee to determine the extent to which night messengers are exposed to immoral influences.

The results of this investigation, he said, have been a law in New York forbidding employment of messengers under 21 years after 10 o'clock at night, and laws in Ohio, Oregon and other states fixing the age limit at 18 years. He said bills for a 21 year limit are now pending in Rhode Island, New Jersey, Massachusetts, Pennsylvania and other states. In Providence, R. I., last week, he said, the committee agent broke up a notorious cocaine gang, landing two offenders in prison.

AS USUAL, THEY FOOL THEMSELVES

Newlyweds Make Brave Effort, But Everyone Is Wise.

They drove up to the Mills street entrance of the hotel in a closed carriage. The driver carried their bag and suit case to the hotel entrance and held the door back for them. The bell boys made a dive for these same bags and preceded the couple down the main lobby of the hotel. He wore a suit of gray and a Stetson hat, all new. She was attired in a charming going away traveling dress gray with a flower pattern hat to match. He wore gloves and she wore an embarrassed look.

They walked down the marble aisle of peacock alley in such an offhand manner that they could not have announced the fact that they had just been married more effectively if the bell boys had been flower bearers and the orchestra in the cafe had been playing a wedding march. He registered without removing his brand new gloves, tipped the bell boy twice in his excitement, and then carried his own grips to the elevator.

They were on their honeymoon, but no one would ever guess it, at least no one who was blind.
